Long-time philanthropic leader, David Bohm joins myFutureNC

Raleigh, N.C. (December 15, 2020) -- myFutureNC is pleased to announce David Bohm as its first Director of Development. David begins his role on January 4, 2021 and brings a wealth of knowledge and experience that will be instrumental in supporting our statewide educational attainment goal and helping to advance opportunities for North Carolina students. In this role, David will be responsible for developing strategic partnerships and building capacity to support the organization's mission. The impact of COVID-19 underscores the importance of myFutureNC's efforts to dramatically increase the number of North Carolinians with a high-quality credential or college degree. Educational attainment is the recovery strategy and the long-term resiliency plan for our State's economy.

David most recently served as the Director of Development for the Campbell Law School where he created and executed the fundraising plan and expanded the school's impact in the local community through a number of engagement initiatives. While he began his career in law, working for two firms and then the North Carolina Bar Association, David has passionately served the last 12 years in the non-profit space, concentrating on finding collaborations between communities for legal needs, educational opportunities, and social determinants of health. In addition to his full-time role, David supports a number of organizations, including serving as the Program Chair of Leadership North Carolina Class XXVIII and Chair of the Y Guides Advisory Board at the YMCA.

"David's knack for collaboration and his proven experience in developing strategic partnerships and funding opportunities will have a significant impact as we continue building a strong organizational foundation focused on the state's 2 million by 2030 educational attainment goal," said Cecilia Holden myFutureNC president and CEO. "We're excited to have him on the team."

"I'm thrilled to be joining myFutureNC and the important work we are doing with our partners. In my time at the Campbell Law School I was fortunate to be able to help increase access to educational pathways for many who would otherwise not be able to study law. I know there is more we can do to help open doors for all students in our state and look forward to building new partnerships to make that happen."

David holds a Bachelor of Arts degree from Washburn University, a Juris Doctor from Washburn University School of Law, a Masters of Law in Health Law from Loyola University Chicago School of Law and an Executive Certificate in Nonprofit Leadership from Duke University. He is originally from Kansas and now lives in Raleigh with his wife and their son and daughter.

About myFutureNC

myFutureNC is championing the State's ambitious educational attainment goal to have 2 million North Carolinians ages 25-44 to hold a high-quality credential or postsecondary degree by the year 2030. As a nonprofit organization, myFutureNC is working across sectors and in communities throughout the state to close gaps in the education pathway, to promote alignment between educational programming and business/industry needs, and to ultimately improve educational opportunities for all North Carolinians. Join our efforts and help champion success for our state and all of its people. Visit www.myfuturenc.org.
